

Michael Hamilton

I was born in England in 1940, and went to school there until 1953. In that year my family immigrated to Canada. I went to school in Toronto. First to Norseman Public School and then to Royal York Collegiate Institute. In 1957, my family moved to Oakville, and I spent my last two years of high school at T.A. Blakelock High School. I attended McMaster University for the years 1959-1962. Then, after a Summer School course at O.C.E. I taught for one year at Madoc High School. The following year I moved to West Elgin District High School, which later became West Elgin Secondary School. In 1984, I moved to Central Elgin Collegiate Institute. I retired from there January 1996.
